PREFACE.

PALATINATE OF CHESTER
AND FLINT. 15

The records of the abolished courts of the Palatinate of Chester were placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls by the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94. An elaborate report upon large classes of documents preserved at Chester was printed in 1840¹. Some others in the possession of the representatives of the last Chief Justice of Chester, were brought into the custody of the Master of the Rolls in 1845.

In pursuance of a warrant from the Master of the Rolls, dated 18th July, 1854, and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor, a great number of documents was removed from Chester to the Public Record Office in the autumn of that year. In the succeeding period, much attention was devoted to the examination and arrangement of the records of this Palatinate, but, by an unfortunate and inexplicable error, they came to be classified as "Welsh Records." Various Calendars of them which appeared from time to time bore this misleading title. Steps have recently been taken to rectify the error, as will be seen by the following List.

While it is hardly necessary to cite the finding of the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas and three other judges in 1569 that the "counties of Chester and the City of Chester be no part nor parcell of the (said) Dominion or Principality of Wales or of the Marches of the same"², some historical explanation seems desirable with regard to the status of the records of a Welsh district lying to the west and south of Cheshire.

The county of Flint, the boundaries of which varied considerably from time to time, was for a very long period regarded as a subordinate member of the county Palatinate of Chester. Camden quotes an ancient manuscript as saying:—"Comitatus Flint pertinet ad dignitatem gladii Cestriae"³. Professor Tout remarks that "in establishing Flintshire, Edward I. did not forget the tradition of two centuries, which had associated the region with his Chester Palatinate"⁴. By the statute of 1284, the Sheriff of Flint was required to be obedient to the Justice of Chester, and to be answerable for revenue to the Exchequer of Chester. His position was thus different from that of the Sheriff of Shropshire, who accounted at Westminster, and that of the Sheriffs of Anglesey, Carnarvon, and Merioneth, who were subject to the Justice of Snowdon.

Cheshire and Flintshire are sometimes mentioned as one county, sometimes as two counties. In 1303, the manor of Hope, now an important member of Flintshire, is described in royal letters patent as being in the county of Chester⁵. Some nine years later, Edward II. granted the counties of Chester and Flint to his son Edward by two separate charters⁶. The eldest son of Henry IV. was given the counties Palatine of Chester and Flint in 1399⁷. He was separately invested with the Principality of Wales, and, in the same year, he received a grant of wardships and marriages belonging to the King "in principatu Wall' et com' Cestr' et Flynt," the Palatinate being thus distinguished from the Principality⁸. In an assignment to the Queen Mother, in 1423, Flintshire is regarded as part of the Earldom of Chester⁹. By Henry VI. and Edward IV. alike the two counties are described as Palatine:—"comitatus nostros palatinos Cestr' et Flynt"¹⁰. In 1473, a large body of tutors and councillors was appointed for the infant Prince of Wales, with administrative authority in the Principality of Wales, the Duchy of Cornwall, the Counties of Chester and Flint and elsewhere¹¹. In November, 1489, Arthur, first-born son of Henry VII., was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, but in several letters patent of the year 1493 he is styled Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall and Earl of Chester and Flint¹². An Act of Parliament of 1495 mentions "the countie Palatyne of Chestre and Flynt," and distinguishes between "the Principalite of Wales," the "Duchie of Cornwall" and "therledome of Chestre and Flynt"¹³. As there was never a separate Earldom of Flint, the expression is interesting in illustration of the close connexion between the two counties. It is more important to observe that, although the eldest son of the King of England was often Prince of Wales as well as Earl of Chester, "he rules Flint as Earl and not as Prince"¹⁴.

15 This introduction to p. vi, l. 14, has been reprinted in the Flintshire Historical Society's Journal. vol. ix

The Act of 1543 "for certain ordinances in the King's Dominion and Principality of Wales" associated Flintshire with the two new Welsh counties of Denbigh and Montgomery for some specific purposes in connexion with the administration of the Common Law, but, even in so doing, entrusted the issue of original writs—that is to say writs for the commencement of suits—for Flintshire to the Chamberlain of Chester. It also transferred the appointment of Sheriffs and Escheators from Chester to Westminster. On the other hand it explicitly provided that the writs for the choice of coroners for Flintshire should be directed out of the Exchequer of Chester¹. Appointments of surveyors, controllers, and other royal officers in Flintshire are to be found on the Chester Rolls of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. As late as 1830, the Seal-Keeper of the County Palatine of Chester received the compositions on fines for the alienation of land in the county of Flint and rendered account of them to the Chamberlain of Chester².

In 1569, the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas and three other judges gave their opinion that the county of Flint was "parcel" of the County Palatine of Chester³. A statement that the county of Flint then "revolted and joined itself to the Principality of Wales" is neither official nor contemporary⁴. Nor is it supported by evidence.

The Latin legend on the reverse of the local seal of Elizabeth mentions "her County Palatine of Chester and her county of Flint"⁵.

An account of the Graver of the Mint in the early part of the reign of James I. contains charges for making "a double Chauncerye seale for the counties of Denbigh, Mountgomerye and Flint" as well as "a double judiciall seale for the same counties"⁶. The use of the latter was authorised by section 29 of the Act of 1543; the use of the former would have been in direct violation of sections 19 and 20. No example of an original, or Chancery, seal for Denbigh, Montgomery and Flint is known to exist. Furthermore, an examination of a number of original writs of the reign of James I. throws light upon the actual practice of the time. While writs of Dower, Pone, Precipe quod reddat, and Recordari facias for the counties of Denbigh and Montgomery were tested by the King at Denbigh, those for Flint were tested at Chester by the King down to 1610, and afterwards by his eldest son⁷. In the absence of better evidence therefore, it is extremely doubtful whether the original seal for Denbigh and Montgomery was ever used for Flint also.

The local seals of James I. and Henry, Prince of Wales, are inscribed:—"comitatus Palatini sui Cestrie et comitatus sui Flint." An account of the year 1622 contains a reference to the Chamberlain of Chester and Flint⁸.

Under the Commonwealth, the legend on the local seal was in English:—"The original seal for the county Palatine of Chester and Flint, 1648"⁹. A woodcut of a seal of Anne "comitatus sui Cestrie et Flint an. 1706" appears on the title-pages of the publications of the Flintshire Historical Society. The silver matrix of it is still in existence.

The counties of Chester and Flint being thus intimately connected, the records of the administration of Flintshire are integral parts of the records of the Palatinate of Chester. In many cases they are physically inseparable therefrom, single rolls of parchment or sheets of paper containing entries relating to both counties. The earliest surviving roll of accounts of a Chamberlain of Chester, formerly preserved in the Treasury of the Receipt of the Exchequer at Westminster, contains a copy of the writ whereby Edward, Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester, Ponthieu and Montreuil, appointed William de Melton to be his Chamberlain and Receiver in the counties of Chester and Flint, in April, 1301. From that time downwards, the rolls of the Chamberlain of Chester deal with Cheshire and Flintshire alike¹⁰. Subsidiary to these, and closely connected with them are the more detailed accounts of stewards, bailiffs, and other local ministers. To put the matter in the language of ordinary business, the Chamberlain of Chester was the Treasurer (or cashier) of the Palatinate. The Chamberlain's Account may perhaps be described as his Cash Book; and the entries in it are unintelligible without reference to the Ledger account, the place of which is occupied, in this collection of documents, by separate series of accounts, drawn up at Chester each year before the Auditors in the Exchequer of the Palatinate, in which a complete statement is given of the position of each accountant. Two concrete examples will suffice to make this clear. The account of the Chamberlain of Chester for 2-3 Richard II. (Ministers' Accounts, Bdle. 772. No. 13.) contains the following entry:—"and for 40s. received of John de Helegh, Escheator of Flynt, as well for the arrears of the said office of the previous year as for the issues of this year; as appears in the foot of his account of the time aforesaid." This brief entry in Latin occupies 2 lines of MS. For the details of the account represented it is necessary to go to a different roll (Ministers' Accounts, Bdle. 1188; No. 5), which contains the complete accounts of the various officers of the county of Flint who had to answer at Chester. Here we find, in its proper place, the account of John de Helegh, which occupies more than 360 similar lines of MS. It records his actual receipts and disbursements and therefore includes, in the concluding portion, or "foot," of the account, the above payment of 40s. to the Chamberlain of Chester. In the account of the Chamberlain of Chester for 7-8 Henry VII., the receipts from Flintshire of divers officers and ministers of the Prince of Wales "as Earl of Chester (ut Comitis Cestr)" occupy eleven lines of MS. (Ministers' Accounts, Henry VII. No. 1458.) The detailed accounts occupy a whole roll of nine membranes (No. 1573). It will be seen that these rolls are strictly complementary to each other, and that, though physically separate, they are logically inseparable.

A series of extracts relating mainly to Cheshire between the years 1301 and 1360 had been previously published by the Record Society of Lancashire and Cheshire.

Inquisitions taken in Flintshire were returned into the Exchequer at Chester in obedience to writs issuing from Chester under Tudors and Stuarts alike, long after the Act of 1543 and after the alleged "revolt" of 1569¹. Entries relating to Flintshire alternate with entries relating to Cheshire on the so-called Recognizance Rolls.

So again with regard to judicial records. Successive Justices of Chester sat in Flintshire in virtue of their office from the reign of Edward I. and the rolls of their proceedings there are records of Chester, at any rate down to the middle of the sixteenth century.

In August 1540, Sir Nicholas Hare was appointed Justice of Chester and Flint, in the place of Sir William Sulyard, deceased². In June of the following year, he received a further patent as Justice in the two new counties of Denbigh and Montgomery³. His successors, down to the reign of George IV. received separate commissions, one for Chester and Flint, and the other for Denbigh and Montgomery. It may therefore be contended that the ancient union of Flintshire with Cheshire for judicial purposes was maintained down to a recent period.

On the other hand, an examination of the Act of 1543 "for certain ordinances in the King's Dominion and Principality of Wales" seems to show that Flintshire was intended thenceforth to belong to Wales for certain purposes of the Common Law. The Justice of Chester was thereby directed to hold sessions twice a year in each of the three shires of Denbigh, Flint, and Montgomery, these sessions being specifically called "the King's Great Sessions in Wales"⁴. Provision was also made for the appointment of one Prothonotary and one "judicial seal" for the three counties⁵. But, while the Act laid down that an "original seal" for the counties of Denbigh and Montgomery should be entrusted to the Steward or Chamberlain of Denbigh, it explicitly ordered that the "original seal" for Flintshire should, as before, be the Chester seal in the custody of the Chamberlain of Chester⁶. In other words, a person wishing to begin a suit in Flintshire, had, even after the Act, to get the necessary writ or writs from Chester.

The Act in question seems to have been passed between the 22nd of January, 1543, when the Parliament met for its second session, and the 7th of April, when four seals for the Chancery of Wales—that is to say "original seals"—and four seals called the "judicial seals"—were ordered⁷. In one respect it was consistently ignored for nearly three centuries, and some of the difficulties with regard to the records of Flintshire are due to this fact. The provision that there should be a common Prothonotary for the three shires of Flint, Denbigh, and Montgomery, appointed under the Great Seal of England, had been limited only by a clause protecting the interests of John Birkheved, who was at that time Prothonotary and Clerk of the Crown in Flintshire as well as Cheshire⁸. However, upon the occurrence of the first vacancy, in 1555, old usage proved stronger than the recent statute, and three members of the Birkehead family obtained a grant, in survivorship, of the office of Prothonotary in the counties of Chester and Flint. This grant was made under the Chester seal⁹. The Prothonotaryship of Flintshire went with that of Chester until the court of Sessions of Chester and the courts of Great Sessions of Wales were alike abolished in 1830.

The more careful Prothonotaries seem to have recognised that they held two distinct offices, perhaps one office and a third of another. In 1800, Alexander Eaton described himself as "Deputy Prothonotary and Clerk of the Crown of the Court of Great Session of Flint and Court of Session of Chester," and he consistently drew distinctions between the two courts. Most of the records of the Great Sessions of Flint, established by the Act of 1543, were kept separate from those of the ancient Sessions of Chester. In certain cases, however, as might be expected, confusion had arisen. Thus, some of the Crown Books, a few Rule Books, a Minute Book, some Docket Books of Fines and Recoveries, and some rolls concerning attorneys were common to Chester and Flint¹.

To sum up then, it may fairly be held that the records of the Great Sessions of Flintshire from 1543 to 1830, although formerly preserved at Chester, should be regarded as judicial records of the Principality of Wales, but that all other records of Flintshire, formerly preserved at Chester, administrative, financial, and judicial, should be regarded as belonging to the Palatinate of Chester.

In addition to the documents listed in the present volume, the Records of the Palatinate of Chester comprise the following, enumerated in previous publications of this series:—

ACCOUNTS, VARIOUS. (Lists and Indexes, No. XXXV.)

Bundle 488, Nos. 1, 2, 4-13 (p. 292).

The following records of the Palatinate of Chester are not mentioned in any List hitherto published:—

Account of the Chamberlain of Chester, Philip & Mary.

Court Rolls of Halton, A.D. 1684-1724 (Court Rolls, Portfolio 156, no. 33).

Ancient Deeds. Series F and FF.

Deeds, James I. and later. Series F. Bundles 1-4.

The collection of documents formerly preserved at Chester and transferred thence to London in 1854 comprised a few records which do not appear to relate to the Palatinate, viz:—

Accounts relating to Cardewen and other places now in the counties of Montgomery and Salop. 38 & 39 Edward III. (Ministers' Accounts, bundle 1206, no. 3.)

Accounts relating to Denbigh and other places now in the county of that name. 34-44 Edward III. (Ministers' Accounts, bundle 1182, nos. 4-8, 10; bundle 1183, nos. 1-3; bundle 1233, no. 4.)

Account of the Chamberlain of North Wales, 8-11 Henry IV., and accounts relating to places in the counties of Anglesey and Carnarvon, 9 & 10 Henry IV. (Ministers' Accounts, bundle 1152, No. 4; bundle 1175, no. 7; bundle 1216, no. 2; bundle 1233, no. 1.)

Accounts of the lordship of Bromfield and Yale, 16 & 17 Henry VII and 12 & 13 Henry VIII. Crown Lands. (Ministers' Accounts, Henry VII. no. 1654; Henry VIII. no. 5,000.)

Court Rolls of Wrexham and other places now in the counties of Denbigh and Flint, 13 & 14, and 18 & 19 Edward III. (portfolio 226, nos. 17, 18.)

Rental of Beggeworth, co. Gloucester. (Rentals and Surveys, Roll 889.)

It may be observed that a considerable number of the Accounts of the Chamberlain of Chester and of the local escheators, bailiffs and others who were responsible to him for issues of land, etc. in Cheshire and Flintshire, came to the Public Record Office from the office of the King's Remembrancer or from other branches of the Exchequer at Westminster. For certain periods, there are two copies of the accounts, the originale having been kept at Chester and the duplicamentum having been sent to Westminster. Some of the accounts were furthermore enrolled in the office of the Pipe¹.

In pursuance of a Schedule laid before both Houses of Parliament in 1909, some records of the courts of the Palatinate of Chester which were not considered of sufficient value to justify their preservation in the Public Record Office were transferred to the National Library of Wales at Aberystwyth.

PALATINATE OF DURHAM.

The records of the abolished courts of the Palatinate of Durham were placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls by the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94. An elaborate report upon large classes of documents preserved at Durham was printed in 1855². A further report and some correspondence on the subject were printed in 1868³.

In pursuance of a warrant from the Master of the Rolls, dated 17th November, 1868, and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor, a great number of documents was removed from Durham to the Public Record Office soon afterwards. An inventory of these was published in 1869⁴. Some of those from the Auditor's Office, consisting of

1. Lists and Indexes, No. XI. pp. 143, 197, 319.

2. Sixteenth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Records, App. pp. 44-93.

3. Twenty-ninth Report, App. pp. 104-112.

4. Thirtieth Report, App. pp. 44-98.

Ministers' Accounts and the like, were claimed by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners as necessary for the management of the estates committed to their control, and were, after a lengthy examination, transferred to them from the Public Record Office in 1876. A few, relating to the Crown Estates, were sent to the Land Revenue Record Office pursuant to the Act 21 & 22 Vict. c. 45.

In pursuance of a Schedule laid before both Houses of Parliament in 1912, some records of the courts of the Palatinate of Durham which were not considered of sufficient value to justify their preservation in the Public Record Office were transferred to the Public Library of the County Borough of Gateshead, and others were destroyed.

The ecclesiastical records of the see of Durham remain of course in the custody of the Bishop's Registrar. A brief inventory of them, compiled by Mr. H. H. E. Craster, has been printed in the Proceedings of the Society of Antiquaries of Newcastle upon Tyne (3rd Series, vol. V.).

"The County Palatine of Durham" forms the subject of a learned monograph¹.

The Register of Bishop Kellawe, 1311-1316, was published in 1873-1878, in four volumes in the series of Chronicles and Memorials.

A Calendar of the Rolls of the Chancery of the Palatinate from 1333 to 1617 was printed in instalments between 1870 and 1879².

A Calendar of Inquisitions post mortem and other analogous documents was printed in 1883 and 1884³. A certain number of Inquisitions, apparently overlooked at the time of the transfer in 1868, were brought up to the Public Record Office in 1911, and inserted in the files to which they formerly belonged. Inasmuch as they are not noticed in the Calendar, a list of them, founded on material prepared by Mr. J. W. Robinson, is now given. (pp. 32-35.)

A detailed List of the Court-rolls, etc. formerly in the Cursitor's Office at Durham is printed in Lists and Indexes, No. VI. (pp. 176-182.)

Five documents from Durham are enumerated in the List of Rentals and Surveys (Lists and Indexes, No. XXV.), portfolio 21, nos. 28, 29; portfolio 30, no. 20; and rolls 992, 993.

Series G. of Ancient Deeds consists of documents from Durham.

PALATINATE OF LANCASTER.

The records of the Palatinate of Lancaster are not specifically mentioned in the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94, but as "records belonging to Her Majesty" they came under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls by virtue of an Order in Council of 5th March, 1852.

In pursuance of a warrant from the Master of the Rolls, dated 17th September, 1873, and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor, a great quantity of documents was soon afterwards removed from the offices of the Clerk of the Crown, the Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas, and the Principal Registrar of the Court of Chancery, at Lancaster, to the Public Record Office. Lists of them were printed in 1874⁴.

The early records of the Duchy of Lancaster had been already transferred to the Public Record Office in 1868. On two occasions Sir T. D. Hardy explained at some length the difference between the Duchy and the Palatinate, the former being more extensive than the latter, which was in fact coterminous with the county of Lancaster⁵. They had separate seals. Considering, however, that the Palatinate was a branch of the Duchy, and that the Chancellor of the Palatinate was usually Chancellor of the Duchy also, it is not surprising to find that some of their records got mixed. As an instance, attention may be called to the first seven Chancery Rolls enumerated in the general List of Records of the Duchy of Lancaster (List and Indexes, No. XIV., p. 27), which, being Close Rolls of the Palatinate, should precede the three similar Close Rolls enumerated in this volume (p. 52)⁶. The Inquisitions post mortem of the Duchy may also be compared with those of the Palatinate.

1. By G. T. Lapsley, Ph.D. printed in the series of Harvard Historical Studies, in 1900.

2. Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Records, Nos. XXXI.-XXXVII. and XL.

3. Reports, XLIV., XLV.

4. Thirty-fifth Report of the Deputy Keeper, App. pp. 42-75.

5. Thirtieth Report, pp. iii.-viii.; Thirty-fifth Report, pp. iv.-xi.

6. Calendars of the whole series were printed in the Thirty-second Report, App. i. pp. 331-365; Thirty-third Report, App. pp. 1-42; Thirty-seventh Report, App. 1. pp. 172-179.

Various records of the Duchy of Lancaster have been enumerated in previous volumes of this series (Lists and Indexes, Nos. V., VI., VIII., XIV., XXV., XXXIII., XXXIV.). The present List deals only with records transferred from Lancashire.

Series H of Ancient Deeds consists of documents relating to the Palatinate.

Some records of the Palatinate of Lancaster which were not considered of sufficient value to justify their preservation in the Public Record Office were destroyed in pursuance of Schedules laid before both Houses of Parliament in 1894 and 1909.

HONOUR OF PEVERIL.

The Court of Record for the Honour of Peveril was abolished by the Act 12 & 13 Vict. c. 101, and its records were thereby placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. In pursuance of a warrant from the Master of the Rolls, dated 18th July, 1854, and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor, all the documents were soon afterwards removed from Nottingham to the Public Record Office. A short account of them was printed in the following year¹.

PRINCIPALITY OF WALES.

The records of the abolished courts of the Principality of Wales were placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls by the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94. An elaborate report upon them was printed in 1840². They were at that time preserved in different repositories at Welshpool, Ruthin, Carnarvon, Dolgelley, Presteign, Cardiff, Carmarthen, Haverfordwest, Cardigan, and Brecon, in Wales, while the records of the Great Sessions of Flintshire were preserved at Chester. A few were in London.

In pursuance of several warrants from the Master of the Rolls issued in 1845 and 1854 and countersigned by the Lord Chancellor, all these documents were removed to the Public Record Office. With the records of the Great Sessions established by Act of Parliament in 1543, there came a few Plea Rolls of earlier date (Lists and Indexes, No. IV), and four other documents:—

Accounts of Penllyn commote and other places, co. Merioneth, 35 & 36 Henry VI. and 19 & 20 Henry VII. (Ministers' Accounts, bundle 1205, no. 3; Henry VII. no. 1649.) These seem to belong to a series formerly preserved in the Offices of the King's Remembrancer of the Exchequer and the Land Revenue.

Court Rolls of Builth and Cardigan of the reign of George III. (Portfolio 215, nos. 14, 15.)

It may be observed that the main series of accounts of the Chamberlains of North Wales, South Wales, and West Wales, and of the local escheators, bailiffs and others who were responsible to them respectively for the issues of lands, etc. came to the Public Record Office from the office of the King's Remembrancer or from other offices of the Exchequer at Westminster. Some of them were enrolled in the Office of the Pipe as early as the reign of Edward I.³

By consent of the Town Council of Ruthin and the lord of the manor, a considerable number of documents was removed from that place to the Public Record Office in 1859. Some of them are mentioned in the present List (p. 106). Others have been already enumerated:—

RENTALS AND SURVEYS. (Lists and Indexes, No. XXV.)
Rolls 905, 906.

It is doubtful whether these Court Rolls and Surveys can be regarded as "records" under the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 94. On the other hand certain records which seem originally to have belonged to the same series came to the Public Record Office from the Chapter House at Westminster in 1859¹.

The F series of Ancient Deeds, consisting mainly of documents removed from Chester, comprises seven relating to Cardiganshire (nos. 47, 403, 409, 426-428, 449), and twenty-five relating to Carmarthenshire (nos. 48, 49, 402, 404, 406-408, 410-416, 429-431, 443-448, 451, 454.)

A few documents found among the records of the Brecon Circuit are in the class of Ancient Deeds, FF. no. 51 (1—39), and more modern deeds from the various Welsh repositories form bundles 5 to 8 of Deeds, James I. and later. Series F.

Two Plea Rolls of Carnarvon (nos. 5 and 19) of the middle of the sixteenth century were recovered from Mr. D. Williams, a builder and contractor, in 1890².

In pursuance of a Schedule laid before both Houses of Parliament in 1909, some records of the Great Sessions of Wales which were not considered of sufficient value to justify their preservation in the Public Record Office were transferred to the National Library of Wales at Aberystwyth.
